

ABSTRACT

The present invention related to methods for treating neurological-urological conditions associated with prostate cancer or methods of treatment of prostate cancer, which is accomplished by administration of botulinum toxin to the patient.